PACKETS TO ENERGY PROGRAM

Turn your used coffee packets into electricity! (and make our highways a little cleaner)

While the Flavia and Keurig systems are real energy savers when compared to the old batch brew systems, they do come with more packaging. Fortunately, we can now put the spent packets to good use. Just a few miles from our main warehouse is a big Covanta waste-to-energy plant. We have arranged for Covanta to receive our spent Flavia, Keurig and Lavazza brew packs for their state-of-the-art incinerator-generator and create clean electricity. If you choose to participate in this service, our drivers will pick up any spent brew packets you have whenever they are making a delivery to you. We compact the packets and deliver them to Covanta.

While there is a modest charge for this service that we must pass on to our customers, we are using the proceeds to fund our Adopt-a-Highway signage. Each sign funds the cleanup of one mile of a busy highway. Our first sign went up on the westbound side of the Grand Central Parkway east of the Clearview Expressway in 1998. So not only can your coffee help make electricity, it can help keep our roadsides clean of litter!
